

ARMISTICE WILL SHORTLY BE ANNOUNCED BY ENVOYS

FIRST STEPS IN PEACEFUL SETTLEMENT OF MEXICAN TROUBLE FORMULATED
IN WASHINGTON.

JAPANESE IN REFUSAL

Preparations for War However Continued—Funston in Charge at
Vera Cruz and Troops
Are Landed.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, April 29.—An armistice in the differences between the United States and Mexico has been asked of this government and General Huerta by the South American envoys who have been endeavoring to avert war through mediation. The proposal for an armistice was communicated to President Wilson from the state department by telephone. Although no announcement was made public it was authoritatively learned that his government under the conditions had been given assurance that calling a halt in military operations there should be no civil uprising against American citizens which might prevent peace.

Seeking Compromise.
The envoys have seen several prominent Mexicans well posted on the conditions in the Mexican republic. They have a list of well informed Mexicans in this country representing all shades of opinion and are seeking to harmonize the view points of all elements and factions. In the absence of authentic information from the mediators' conference took a wide range as to the various plans they are likely to consider. One of these was at the outset that both sides might be asked temporarily to suspend military action, yet it would hold in abeyance any definite move pending the efforts towards mediation.

The report also persisted that one of the principles likely to be considered was for the provincial form of government in Mexico but this also they are likely to consider. One of these was at the outset that both sides might be asked temporarily to suspend military action, yet it would hold in abeyance any definite move pending the efforts towards mediation.

United States Viewpoint.
As a result of the conference held by the two envoys, Naon and Suarez, with Secretary Bryan last night there is little doubt but that the mediators understand pretty closely the tentative viewpoint of the United States. But it is understood that neither side as yet has submitted a formal plan of disagreement. It is understood that the envoys are seeking to get near to a neutral point than to a decided plan of disagreement. No suggestion has been made to the United States government looking to a settlement of the mediators representing any other government than Brazil, Argentina, and Chile. In speaking of the settlement of the situation with General Huerta in Mexico, Secretary of State Bryan declared today. He refused to say how far the steps toward mediation undertaken by the three South American diplomats had progressed.

Peace Preliminaries.
While scores of Americans continued their hurried exodus from Mexico, Gen. Funston's troops landed today to complete the occupation of Vera Cruz, the representatives of three other American Republics, gathered in the quiet library of the Argentine legation in the Washington fashionable residence district, were considering the preliminaries of their attempt to steer the Mexican crisis into ways of peace. No intimation of the tenor of their program has been revealed. There was no indication of when proposals would be submitted to Huerta or to the Washington government, but it is probable that three or four days would pass before the next move would be made and the efforts of the other American envoys "good offices."

SOUTH AMERICAN DIPLOMATS HOPE TO BRING THE U. S. AND MEXICO TOGETHER

Here are the South American diplomats who are attempting to restore peaceful relations between the United States and Mexico. Senor Suarez represents Chile at Washington; Senor Naon represents Argentina; and Senor da Gama, Brazil. The difficulties lying in the way of these gentlemen are enhanced by the fact that neither Chile, Argentina nor Brazil has recognized Huerta. By accepting the offers of mediation from the three South American republics the United States gains the good will of all the South American countries.

STRIKE WAR COSTS SEVEN MORE LIVES

Fatalities Reported at Forbes Camp
Where Fighting Continued Last Night—Troops on Scene.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Forbes, Colo., April 29.—Seven men dead in the Forbes Camp of the Rocky Mountain Fuel company. Most of the mine buildings are in ashes, and defenders are missing but three. The strikers are thought to have been killed in last night's labor war here.

Rain Halts Violence.
Denver, Colo., April 29.—Violence in the strike zone came to an end shortly after midnight, when a downpour of rain cooled the ardor of the striking miners who were active at the mines near Walsenburg, the only point in Colorado where actual violence occurred, and today dawned with the progress of indefinite peace between the warring industrial factions.

Federal troops from Cheyenne, Wyoming, arrived in Colorado early today, and troops from Fort Leavenworth are to arrive late today. The soldiers from Wyoming went direct to Canon City to take charge of the situation. The troops from Kansas are expected in Trinidad.

In official circles here and among the union leaders there is an expression of confidence in the federal troops in control of the situation. But Governor Ammons reiterated his determination not to withdraw any of the state troops from the locality which are not amply protected by the federal soldiers.

President Wilson's Proclamation.
President Wilson's proclamation issued yesterday, by virtue of which the federal troops were ordered into Colorado, gives the strikers, "gunmen" and others a temporary respite from their various abuses peacefully and to cease all acts of lawlessness.

From that moment until further orders come from the president of the United States all violators of the law and order must answer to the federal government.

LAST OF AMERICANS FLEE FROM TAMPICO

ABOUT THREE THOUSAND AMER-ICAN REFUGEES HAVE JOINED COLONY AT
VERA CRUZ.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tampico, via Vera Cruz, April 29.—The American exodus from Tampico, beginning April 22nd, ended today with the departure of 60 persons aboard the steamer Canfield. The refugees sent from here to American ports since the movement began is official given as 2,970. There are a number of Americans still in Tampico. The few remaining are in the homes of Mexican friends.

Report Property Losses.
No credited reports have been given here of the damage to the oil wells in Tampico. It is stated that the Corona and other great wells in the Panuco region are reported to be overflowing and many barrels of oil are being lost daily. Unless this is checked the deluge of oil will be the city. They will be the river and danger from property loss in case of fire will be great.

No attempt has been made to meet American demands for the Aqueduct American warships off the port are the Dolphin, cruisers Birmingham and Des Moines, and nine torpedo destroyers.

The business at Tampico is at a complete standstill and sanitary conditions are bad. The indications favor the ability of the federalists to defend Tampico against the rebels indefinitely.

Anxiety in Vera Cruz as to friends and relatives in the interior. has been relieved by the events of yesterday which show that the Mexican authorities are permitting Americans to come down to the coast.

Today the refugee colony is steadily settling down to await news from Puerto Mexico of the arrival of three American warships at the United States City which the Huerta officials, according to Commander Tweedie of the British steamship Essex, stated would be dispatched from the capitol last night.

Refugee Maza Plans.
Vera Cruz, April 29.—Outside of one or two shots in the outlying districts today, Brigadier General Funston and his officers continued today their study of the city. They will take over the work of policing it on Friday, when General Funston will assume the title of military governor.

The officers went about with maps so as to be fully informed as to the peculiarities of each district when they assume control of the city. With the marines and troops already here or en route Brigadier General Funston has been able to operate with a force is complete. The general is planning his outposts and picket lines in such a way as to make duty as easy as possible for the men, yet at the same time they will be "bullet-proof" safe against an unexpected attack.

Are Awaiting Orders.
Mr. O'Shaughnessy and Arnold Shanklin, the American consulate general at Mexico City, who came out with him to the coast, are waiting here. So far as is known they have not yet received instructions from Washington. This is construed to mean that the state department may have hesitated to give orders of the difficulties which would make it possible for them to return to Mexico City.

The release by General Maas of the federal command out of Vera Cruz of his troops, who were brought in from Soledad yesterday by Commander Tweedie, cleared the territory between Vera Cruz and Mexico City on the line of communication of all Americans, with the exception of a few scattered families whose whereabouts are unknown.

Why Advertised Goods are Generally Better

A manufacturer who spends a great deal of money in making his trademark known is building for the future.

That trademark is valuable to him only so long as he makes good.

His investment in good will pays him dividends only so long as he retains the good will.

He has set a high mark and must live up to it.

Manufacturers are turning today to the daily newspapers for their advertising campaigns, because they find that they value so highly can be built up at less expense to themselves than in any other way.

INVADDED STANDARD OIL OFFICE TODAY

Feminine Socialist Enters Rockefeller's
Jr.'s Office, But Is Later Arrested—Discussed Strike.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, April 29.—A woman who said she was a socialist, invaded the office of John D. Rockefeller, Jr. in the Standard Oil building today and sought to interview him with regard to the coal strike in Colorado. Mrs. Rockefeller's secretary told her that he was busy at conferences. The woman carried an American flag into the office and described herself as Mrs. Bell Silverman. She was joined on the outside by Upton Sinclair who wore a bit of crimson on his arm in pursuance of a plan agreed upon at the socialist mass meeting last night. It was planned that "mourners" should gather in front of the Standard Oil building as a protest against the sacrifice lives in Colorado. Mrs. Silverman and Sinclair were the first to arrive on the scene. Mrs. Silverman sought to place this message before Rockefeller: "I am an American citizen standing at the door for just a word with you. Will you grant me this request? My question will be brief and to the point."

When Mrs. Silverman left the office she was carrying a white flag with a blue border and a red heart in the center, with the statement that the heart of the United States was against the workingman.

All were arrested for disorderly conduct and they were taken to the police station in a patrol wagon. Mrs. Silverman said her home was in Georgia and that she was an artist.

DEATH BY LIGHTNING STROKE IS INVALID

Industrial Commission Deny Compensation to Wife of Late John Hoenig, Killed From Flash.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 29.—Holding for the first time that death by lightning stroke is not proximately caused by accident within the meaning of the term as defined in the workmen's compensation act, the industrial commission today denied compensation to Helena Hoenig of Little Rapids for the death of her husband, John Hoenig, last August. Hoenig was employed by the Lindauer O'Connell company as a carpenter. On a day when there had been intermittent rain, with accompanying lightning, he was engaged in taking planks out of the water above a dam in the Fox river. While thus engaged he was killed by lightning.

"The question before us for decision," says the commission, "is whether bodily injury is the result of an accident within the meaning of the compensation act."

The commission then refers to the intention of the legislature, as construed from the report of the committee which drafted the law. It also refers to the decision of the United States supreme court in the case of the compensation act, under which death from lightning was defined as an act of God and could not be pleaded successfully in a claim for personal damages. In this connection the commission says:

"Clearly the industry may and ought to be charged with the burdens resulting from the hazards of the industry itself. It is an open question whether the industry should be charged with the compensation for injuries resulting from the acts of God so-called."

Eventually expecting that the Hoenig case may go to the supreme court for final action, the commission concludes its memorandum with the following:

"The determination of the question of law involved in this case is difficult, but if our construction of the law is correct, the commission is of the opinion that the facts fairly determine a law applicable thereto."

ARREST UPTON SINCLAIR AND PARTY OF WOMEN WHO PROTEST TO ROCKEFELLER

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

New York, April 29.—Upton Sinclair, his wife and three women were arrested today after a demonstration at the office of John D. Rockefeller in the Standard Oil building. The women were charged with connection with the Colorado coal strike.

The prisoners were taken to Old Slips police station, where Mrs. Sinclair was released. The other women, who were placed in cells, when they were released, said they were Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman, an English suffragette, who has been in jail with Mrs. Emeline Pankhurst, Mrs. Margaret Remington Channing, Mrs. Don Lister. All had been arrested on the sidewalk in front of 26 Broadway.

FOUR STATE PARKS WILL BE IMPROVED

State Forester, E. M. Griffith Plans
Big Remodeling of Large Badger
Recreation Plots.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 29.—This season will see much improvement work in the four state parks that have been acquired by the state, according to E. M. Griffith, state forester. Peninsula state park is the largest, containing approximately 3,700 acres and occupies a peninsula extending out into Green Bay from Door county, between the villages of Fish Creek and Ephraim. Marquette state park contains about 1,670 acres, lying between the Wisconsin and Mississippi rivers near Wyalusing. The Devils Lake park contains about 1,400 acres in Sauk county near Baraboo. The Interstate park is owned jointly by Minnesota and Wisconsin. Minnesota owns 550 acres on the west side of the permanent state forest reserves that is on the Brule river in Douglas county, about 6,000 acres are well suited for use as a park and no doubt it will be frequented more and more. The region has great natural beauty and many people from St. Paul, Minneapolis and Milwaukee have been visiting the park. The improvement work in Peninsula Park was begun last season. Considerable areas have been cleaned up and the brush and weeds burned. The road within the park have been improved and the state highway commission is making a plan for four and one-half miles of macadam road along the boundary of the park, work which will be commenced soon. In addition a plan has been made for a fine scenic road to skirt the shore of Green Bay part way and to ascend the highest hills, so as to afford the best views from the park. Mr. Griffith says that sites have been platted for camps, a house for the park superintendent has been located and repaired, and two nine hole golf links have been laid out. A map of the park has been issued with rules and regulations in force. A telephone line has been built by the park to give connections outside and one or two observatory towers have been erected, which will be used to detect and prevent the spread of forest fires, and in addition a plan has been made for a fine scenic road to skirt the shore of Green Bay part way and to ascend the highest hills, so as to afford the best views from the park. LAKOTA MINSTRELS SCORED A BIG HIT

ALL STAR CAST OF TALENTED YOUNG MEN DELIGHT LARGE AUDIENCE.

PLAY TO FULL HOUSE

Myers Theatre Crowded to Its Doors by an Enthusiastic Audience That Enjoyed Every Part of the Entertainment.

Last evening witnessed the second production of the Lakota club minstrels at the Myers theatre. A large capacity house, created by the company and from the rise of the curtain on the overture to the last drop, the stage entertainers were kept busy amusing the audience that appreciated all the local hits, enjoyed the songs and applauded roundly all special features.

The program was well balanced, and was entertaining as shown by the close attention of the entire audience. The end men, including Walter Carle, Howard Clithero, Ralph Soultman, William Poeschen, Dr. S. P. Richards and John Brown, impersonated the black faced comedians in a very capable manner. There was not a hitch in the rendering of the jokes and songs on Janesville men, and George Sennett, interior comic, took his part very seriously and most comably.

The program opened with the introductory melody "In the Far East," introducing the entire Lakota club. The selection was written in the original style, and was well received. The popular songs rendered were the very latest, the club members joining in most all of the choruses, in which the men took part. The first hit followed the opening chorus and was rendered by "Bill" Poeschen, "Willie Had a Motor Boat," and "Bill" had to endure to satisfy the crowd.

Following John Brown's song, "My Wonderful Dream Girl," was and roundly applauded. Mr. Miller has a rich tenor voice and is one of the popular young tenors in this city.

Clithero was next with the jokes, after which he was called upon to sing, "When You Are All Dressed Up and No Place to Go." He was scored to sing a third verse, and was far better in this verse than the other two, as he had the audience under the impression that he didn't know the third verse, by hesitating falteringly and then singing the song amid the cheers of the audience.

Edmond Leary made a very favorable impression upon his listeners, when he sang "Beautiful Dreams I'm Dreaming." He was called upon and each time was thrown a large bouquet of beautiful roses and carnations.

1915 Jefferson Richards was next on the string, singing "Sailing Down the Chesapeake," which song is considered the most popular and most lasting melody of today. He displayed a rich baritone voice, and following the selection, Clithero and Richards took up the same song on the violin and piano. Both men are experts of their respective instruments, and this little sketch proved to be a big hit of the evening.

Charles Patchen with "A Little Love, A Little Kiss," was called upon for an extra encore. Mr. Patchen has a high tenor voice full of volume, and the club are fortunate in having him among their list of members.

"All Aboard for Dixie," the latest thing in popular music, was the biggest song hit of the evening. It was rendered by the big man, Walter Carle, by the aid of the entire club. The grand finale followed this number, in which the entire club sang "Sailing Down the Chesapeake" again. The curtain dropped for intermission as they closed.

The second part opened with the sketch, "The Janesville Fair Hotel," in which two visitors at the hotel, who rented the same room for one day at $30 per day apiece. The hotel proprietor was a grifter, Salevatus, the man of all work, was working for nothing, and it was hard luck that the proprietor did not steal away with all the money he had made, when Dead-Eye-Dick, tough from Beloit, robbed him. The cast was as follows:

Mr. Higgins, hotel proprietor, Oscar H. Yahn Salevatus, man of all work, Benjamin Smith Spine, John, Louisiana, Wilkins, weary travelers at the fair, Gas Bauer and Leo Chase Dead-Eye-Dick, tough from Beloit.

To allow a change of scenery, George Done was brought in by Clithero and Poeschen. "He's a Devil," was sung by the two stars, and many sage spring. The vaudeville act was of a high class. The Lakota Club Music Box, called the "Lakotagraph," was a well acted sketch. Dr. Richards, taking the part of a German professor, wanted to buy the box. A better imitation of Frank Winkler in his German dialect and acting can not be found. The quartet in the box rendered very creditable songs. The Lakota quartet have four first class singers, and the blending of their voices, is what accounts for the success of their work. The cast for the "Lakotagraph" was as follows:

Prof. Gates, inventor, J. P. Hammarlund Prof. Porker, grand opera manager Dr. S. P. Richards, professor, Edmond Leary Second tenor—sol Charles W. Patchen First bass—la C. O. Hammarlund Ko Ko, first tenor, Ralph Soultman

The quartet consisted of a German band with horns following the sketch, and played several selections which proved interesting.

The closing number was the singing of "Walter Carle and Richards, with the help of the entire club. This number closed a very successful minstrel show, and one which is hard to beat on the professional stage.

Credit must be given especially to the following men who assisted greatly in making the production such a grand success: J. P. Hammarlund, chairman of the arrangement committee, Edmond Leary and Chas. Patchen, other members; S. H. Buchanan, director, and the entire orchestra.

The members of the club who took part in the show are as follows: W. P. Airs, piano; Gas Bauer, Clarence Brown, John Brown; Carson Ringmeyer, Frank Bumgarner, George Johnson, Walter Carle, Chas. Clithero, Louis McCarthy, Charles McDonald, William Miller, Charles Noyes, Charles Patchen, William Poeschen, Dr. S. P. Richards, George Sennett, Harold Schwartz, Benjamin Smith, Ralph Soultman, Percy Willgen, Oscar H. Yahn.

Clarence Brown, as an American Beauty girl, sitting in the upper box, sang the opening chorus, for the members to sing to, brought forth much laughter and applause.

The end men and Clarence Brown were the only members of the club who wore costumes during the first part of the program. Every other member who participated, wore dresses, with white ties and white gloves, and during the first part of the program, the men sat at tables in the large cafe room. The scene was a beautiful one, the dress suits bringing out a very pretty effect.

County Clerk H. W. Lee sent out letters to the members of the county board today asking them to ratify the drawing of orders on the county treasurer for the salaries of the superintendent of schools and his deputy, an appropriation for which was neglected at the April meeting of the board. Under the impression that this would be under the jurisdiction of the newly elected county school board an appropriation for three months only was made by the supervisors at the January session, the usual time for making appropriations for officers' salaries.

CHINESE MISSIONARIES ARE SELF CONVERTERS

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.] Hankow, China, April 29.—The "vice-Christian," that type of Chinese convert which was easily won over to any creed so long as he was supplied with money, has had his day, according to the American Episcopal mission in this city. The missions of all denominations today are making their appeal to the better class. There was a time when missionaries came to China with the idea that there was no time to lose in mustering the whole army of Chinese under Christian standards. To make "vice-Christians" was easy. They were supplied with money, and they were converts in everything. But that was not converting China.

There were, however, few missionaries of any denomination who worked so unwisely. In the present day, such men have a hard time living in the mission community. It cannot be said that the man of fanatical enthusiasm has been entirely eliminated, but the average type of missionary today is far more practical. It is the idea of the Episcopal missionaries and their British associates to prepare Chinese to convert their own people. They point to the recent formation of the independent "Holy Catholic Church" in China, which is conducting its own affairs. This successful establishment of an independent church, the first in China, is the result of the system of education conducted jointly by the Church of England at home and in Canada, and the Episcopal church of the United States.

DELAYING THE JOB.

The Milwaukee Sentinel is of the opinion that the A. B. C. peace overtures between Mexico and the United States, are merely delaying the work at hand. They do not stop to consider that the United States has not the right to ignore the rights of the civilized world, the Hague Tribunal, or the ancient treaty with Mexico, or even the question of right or wrong to other European nations. Of course we all know that Secretary Bryan is possessed with the idea that he is a direct guardian of the dove of peace and it is not surprising that he either suggested, or heartily accepted the offers of Argentina, Brazil and Chile, to aid in settling the dispute. That President Wilson, also a man of peace, should have gladly acceded to the proposition is also a sequence of his life and character. Really the delay will not be as dangerous as it looks, even if nothing comes of it, if the United States does not relax its work of preparing for the struggle that may follow. However the Sentinel looks at it in the following light and says:

"The mediation proposal is so directly in line with Mr. Bryan's modes of thought and professional vocation as world's peace agent that it may be set down as of his own origination.

"So far as most of us can see, it would be only a dilatory proceeding and a postponement of the inevitable. Mr. Bryan is obsessed with his curious faith in the maxims about democracy and emotional appeals to the higher sensibilities as a preventive of war. It was said of another professional orator, Edward Everett, that he expected to stop the civil war by 'going round lecturing on the character of Washington.' While he was declaiming amiable platitudes, Lincoln was calling for '100,000 ore' men to put down the rebellion. 'Confident in his 'mediation' salve, Mr. Bryan announces that 'the skies are clearing.' Not for the Mexicans certainly.

"Mr. Bryan's inveterate delusions about the power of moral suasion and seraphic rhetoric to induce these bandits to lay down their arms, forego the delights of loot and the lust of power, and submit to the Jeffersonian millennium would be laughable, if they were not so utterly and mischievously at odds with the practical requirements of the dangerous situation.

"It is no time to put the policy of the state department in charge of the Interparliamentary union and the Mohonk conference. And that is about what Mr. Bryan's continued incumbrance spells for the country. It was easy for such a man to blunder us into a war, but blundering us out of it is a different matter.

"If President Wilson would like to borrow Eliza Root for this emergency, the republican party might loan him for the occasion."

THE RIGHT IDEA.
It has been suggested that if a republican convention is to be held this summer, that such a convention should be called by the republican state central committee, so that it might have some standing in the state at large. Of course the radical conservatives will point out that this would only mean a repetition of the tactics pursued at the last state convention of republicans held at Madison in 1904, when the conservatives were forced to leave the armory and hold a convention of their own at the Fuller Opera House. That might be true, but the Fuller Opera House convention failed to accomplish anything and since then there has been a rift in the republican ranks. Why not try and get together once more on an equal footing? This idea of calling a convention to suit the whim of a few well known leaders of the opposition, under the guise of a republican convention, is about as foolish an idea as could be originated just at this time and should be discouraged. Meanwhile the Home Rule suggestion of a state gathering is growing apace and will develop into some tangible mix up before the summer is over and is more to the point as the question of taxes, not national issues, are going to be fought out in Wisconsin this year.

THE WATER WORKS.
It is up to the tax payers, to the voters of the city, to decide whether the city of Janesville shall purchase the Janesville Water Company or not. The vote comes on May 12th and before casting a ballot for or against the proposition, the results should be weighed carefully. Does the city want to increase its debt?

ed indebtedness some three hundred thousand dollars by purchasing the plant or not?—An increase of the bonded indebtedness means higher taxes, and the general complaint that the taxes have been too high as it is, is heard on every side. The state railway commission has fixed the water rates to be paid by the consumers, so no gain could be brought about through this medium to the small tax payer. If Janesville does not need the water works from an economic point of view, what does it need it for? This is a question for the voter to decide.

CLEAN UP DAYS.

Friday and Saturday are clean up days for Janesville. The Commercial Club has made elaborate preparations for making it effective and it is up to the citizens to co-operate. The crusade on the flies is well under way and the removal of garbage from lots has already begun. At the dumping places Commissioner Goodman has removed the unsightly rubbish that has accumulated there, evened off the piles and made them presentable. The school children have played their part in the work and Friday, Arbor Day and Saturday, the second day of the crusade, will doubtless see many of them hard at work raking the yards, making their gardens and preparing to plant the flower and vegetable seeds they have obtained through the kindness of the ladies of the Civic League. The movement is city wide and each individual property owner should play their part in making it most effective. The rules to follow are not hard and the result will be far reaching.

A SUGGESTION.

If war between Mexico and the United States really takes place and money must be raised by placing a tax on certain commodities as was done in the Spanish war, why not again put the tariff on sugar? This would help the farmers of the best growing sections of the country wonderfully and would not be felt by the consumer at large to any extent.

Why not a Janesville base ball team this summer. The park is there and soon the grand stand will be adequate to take care of any sized crowd and there is certainly enough good material right here at home to make an excellent nucleus.

The presence of so many song birds this spring may be accounted for by the instructions in bird lore taught in the public schools which teaches the children to love the feathered visitors and not to seek to destroy them.

Thus far the Japanese perils have not appeared off the Pacific coast, although it was certain a few months ago the Japs would attack the Philippines and Hawaii as soon as the United States got busy with Mexico.

Huerta may decide to do anything reasonable except to adopt Bryan's grape juice cocktail. That would be asking too much and it is hoped will not be included in the peace conditions.

Friday is May first, the fire prevention, arbor and moving day. To add to this year it is also clean up day, so get busy for a triple holiday and lots of work.

Thus far not a single base ball magnate has suggested a North and South American base ball league with jumps from Terre del Fuego to Nome.

This war that started to drive Huerta out of power has become a trifle more complicated and the question is now, what will Villa do?

If good comes out of this A. B. C. peace conference the doves of peace will have the laugh on the buzzards of Mexico.

War has its drawbacks just the same as any political campaign.

"Airs. I don't know any more about technique than a rabbit. I know of seven voices that she has spoiled."

"Wasn't that piano number simply frightful? She used to play real well when she studied with me." "Yes, my dear, I know you are a conscientious teacher and there is only one better in town that I know of. You ought to let me coach you a bit. I could do wonders with you."

Probably the high-priced vaudeville people will now touch only the high spots—the cities having the high government reserve banks.

The motion picture of Mexico battles taken in New Jersey are certainly immense—much better, no doubt, than the real thing.

BURGLAR FRIGHTENED AWAY BY TELEPHONE

The ringing of a telephone frightened away a house breaker at the residence of J. L. Bostwick, 719 St. Lawrence avenue, early this morning. One of the neighbors had seen the man attempting to raise a side window, and after phoning to the police, he phoned to the Bostwick residence to warn them.

This was enough for the burglar, who became more interested in putting distance between him and the residence than in opening the window. The police were unable to gain trace of him, as no description was given, and the untimely warning gave him a good chance to escape.

CLEAN UP DAYS WILL BE HELD THIS WEEK

FRIDAY AND SATURDAY DESIGNATED AS THE WINDUP OF A STRENUOUS CAMPAIGN.

SPOTLESS CITY IDEA

Everyone Works On the Two Days Designated—Commercial Club Behind the Movement.

Friday and Saturday are cleanup days for Janesville. Everyone works these days to make Janesville the "Spotless City" of the future. It is going to be accomplished by concerted action in which even the school children are to play an important part. The following are some of the suggestions of the Commercial Club, which is behind the movement.

Its Purpose, Scope and Results.
The spring cleanup campaign was inaugurated for the first time two years ago with excellent results. It was discovered that the average citizen who lives in a thorough clean and that he wants the city as a whole to be clean, but that he must be spurred into action. The momentum of a campaign, when everybody talks about cleaning up, is infectious and stirs into action the citizen who would otherwise have neglected his part of the work.

Reduces Fire Hazard.
Among the advantages which accrue to a community by a thorough cleanup is the one which relates to fire risks. The refuse and inflammable material which accumulates in stores, offices and factory buildings, as well as in private homes, and which frequently is neglected for months and months, adds considerably to the fire hazard and thereby becomes a menace to life and property.

Discourages cases of disastrous fires, involving the loss of precious human life and of property, are traceable to accumulated waste paper, rags, and other refuse, which should and could readily have been removed.

Discourages Filth and Baiting.
Filth and filth are always a menace to health. The rubbish which accumulates in attics, basements and backyards is always apt to contain vermin, and in some cases, and which must be removed. Unclean walls, crevices and cracks are apt to be germ ridden. Soap and water and paint are the real purifiers. Old furniture and discarded barrels, rags, paint and old shoes and shoes may be disposed of to peddlers or given away. Much of the worthless material may be burned up in furnaces or kitchen stoves, remainder should be carted away and placed upon public or private dumps.

Flies Carry Disease.
Flies breed in manure and feed on garbage and refuse. Kill the flies by removing their breeding place and by feeding grounds. The government recommends treating manure with powdered borax, one pound of borax to eight bushels of manure. Swat the fly.

The Moral Effect.
There is unquestionably a moral side to this movement. Cleanliness and order make for wholesomeness in thought, purpose and action. The unclean degrades and demoralizes. It leads to shiftlessness and sloth. It lowers the physical and moral standards of man. It renders him unworthy of his Creator and fellowman.

It has well been said that "Cleanliness is next to Godliness." Clean homes, clean homes, clean surroundings, give impulse to clean minds and hearts.

What the City Cannot Do.
The local authorities are not authorized, nor financially equipped to remove such rubbish and refuse from private premises.

It is therefore, incumbent upon the private householder to destroy all such material as can be destroyed in furnaces and kitchen stoves, or to have the same removed from the premises at private expense.

Everybody Help.
It is to every resident of Janesville to become interested in this movement, and to make it his own. He should do his part to raise the civic pride of the community that Janesville will become the cleanest and most wholesome city in the world. Cleanliness, Thrift and Civic Pride are the essentials.

The committee in charge of cleanup days completed final arrangements for the work at a meeting held last night, at which time the hiring of teams was considered, and the plan of cleaning alleys in the downtown district. Dr. S. B. Buckmaster, city health officer, and Frank Lane, secretary of the Commercial Club are in charge of the work. Dr. Buckmaster is conducting the campaign on the west side and Mr. Lane on the east side.

Orders are given for the people to collect their garbage and rubbish they want carried away on the city and between the walk and the gutter, not on the street, on one of the two days. May first and second, set by Mayor Fathers as fire prevention and cleanup days. The material should not be placed in the street, but in the case of rain it would be washed away, clogging the sewers and gutters. P. J. Goodman has leveled the city dumps and will see that regulations are obeyed when the wagon drivers unload the spoils of a cleanup day.

The thermometer of civic pride has reached a fever limit in Janesville and there has been great stirring in the back yards of the city, planting gardens, straightening up the alleys, and pushing ash piles, garbage and rubbish for "Cleanup" has been the popular spring phase, rivaling with "swat the fly" in making the city healthful and sanitary.

Cleanup days, May first and second, promise to cover and conceal in the dump piles a multitude of sins for the discerning eye of the public. The prescription ordered by the health officer is to make the city cleaner and better, is to gather what ashes and rubbish that has collected in the back yard, make a pile of it on the curb or place where the wagon can find it, display the "clean city ticket" and then to plant a garden and to use a little paint wisely. The forces in charge and their aids, the school children, Sunday school students, have organized for persistent results, and the annual city bath this year promises to be a thorough one.

The women of the city, not only the Civic League, but every one who has manifested an interest in the work and have taken up the crusade against uncleanliness in earnest and have become missionaries of brightness and sanitation. On May first and second, it is certain, the citizens of Janesville will in general become unified and in a triumphal march to the goal of Janesville as a spotless town.

GIVEN THIRTY DAYS INSTEAD OF LIBERTY

Eng. Hoveland Given Six Months' Sentence for Second Offense Drunkenness—Three in Court.

"Just give me fifteen minutes to get out of town," was the plea of Thomas O'Brien, a vagrant, who pleaded guilty to the charge of drunkenness in the municipal court this morning. "I give you just thirty days at the Rock county jail on the wood pile," was the reply that Judge Maxfield made.

O'Brien had been in the city several days, begging on the strength of a good arm and last night was picked up gloriously drunk on one of the main streets. The man admitted having been arrested in nearly every city he struck, and that he found begging fairly profitable.

Eng. Hoveland received a six months' sentence under the commitment law for second offense drunkenness after he had pleaded guilty to the charge and waived examination. Hoveland appeared to have the sentence reduced, which was refused, Judge Maxfield declaring that he was sure to stay sober and out of trouble while under sentence. Frank Fitzpatrick, a farm hand employed near Clinton, drew a fine of five dollars and was taken to the charge of intoxication. On paying his fine, Fitzpatrick asked the police officers if he had any money when "tricked out" at the station last night. His apparent financial standing when locked up was rated at twenty-three cents, but he reached down in his stockings and extracted sufficient to pay his fine and had plenty to reach home.

DISMISSES ITALIAN ON LEGAL ARGUMENT

Sectionman Found Guilty by Jury Released by Judge Maxfield on Legal Point.

Judge Maxfield set aside the verdict given by the jury Monday afternoon in which they found Nikola Dependo guilty of hunting rabbits without a license, dismissed the complaint made by Game Warden W. P. Masoud and discharged the Italian on the motion of Attorney E. H. Ryan that the complaint failed to state an offense, as prescribed in the statutes.

After hearing of the testimony Monday, and before the jury was allowed to go out, Attorney Ryan moved to dismiss the case on the grounds that the complaint and testimony failed to show that Dependo was not the owner or occupant of the land on which he was hunting rabbits. The jury was allowed to give its decision and on finding one of the three guilty, Judge Maxfield heard arguments for the dismissal of the case yesterday afternoon. The point contended by Attorney Ryan was that an owner or occupant of land is allowed to hunt rabbits without a license, and that the case failed to show that Dependo was not the owner or occupant of the land on which he was hunting rabbits.

The jury was allowed to give its decision and on finding one of the three guilty, Judge Maxfield heard arguments for the dismissal of the case yesterday afternoon. The point contended by Attorney Ryan was that an owner or occupant of land is allowed to hunt rabbits without a license, and that the case failed to show that Dependo was not the owner or occupant of the land on which he was hunting rabbits.

FORTY YEARS AGO

The Janesville Daily Gazette, April 28, 1874.—Joseph R. Bleasdale, living in the northeast part of the township of Janesville, brought to the city today six young wolves. The night before last he lost a sheep and yesterday morning the light snow then upon the ground enabled him to track the wolf to her den, which was not far off. Supposing he had the "varmint" caged he at once commenced to dig her out. After digging into the den for five feet he came upon a litter of six wolf pups, about six weeks old. These he secured and brought to the city today to receive the state bounty which amounts to thirty dollars. The old wolf was afterwards seen some distance from her den, but made good her escape. After twelvemonths in the city council this evening.

A party by the name of Lawler, from the rural districts, was thrown from a vehicle near the depot yesterday afternoon, by a runaway team, and rendered senseless for a time.

The Odd Fellows returned from Monroe at five o'clock this morning and marched down Milwaukee street with the Bower City band. It is the Regular meeting of the city council this evening.

Hon. Schuyler Colfax, arrived in this city this morning at five o'clock from Monroe, and was escorted to the Davis House, by the Janesville Odd Fellows and the Bower City band. He remained at the Davis for breakfast and until the departure of the Janesville accommodation, when he left for Chicago and South Bend.

Applications for licenses to sell liquor will be presented to the city council this evening.

The groceries along West Milwaukee street are well stocked with fresh "garden stuff" such as onions, lettuce, radishes, green peas, pie plant, etc., from the sunny south.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

ICE DISSOLVERS.

THE ice was dissolved from a stiff and uncomfortable little gathering the other evening when one of those jolly people who always have some ice dissolver about them, asked if we knew what letter could be put before any to make a word. She pronounced it like "any," and of course we all started going through the alphabet in our minds, hitting each letter on, and discarding each in turn.

Naturally the last particle of ice dissolved when, after we had all given up, she asked us what was the matter with a-d-e-r-y.

Of course we had passed that over because in our minds we had been pronouncing it deny instead of deny and hadn't recognized the familiar little words in that guise.

Now, parlor tricks like this are not, particularly dignified or intellectual, but I think they are worth while keeping in our minds for just such occasions.

This one is a new form of the old "what does some-times spell?"

If you try the a-y trick be sure to pronounce it. You will be amused and surprised to see how many people will firmly assert that there "ain't no such critter."

Another interesting little brain teaser is to think up what three words in the English language end in "dons." There is no catch in this. Although it seems strange there are only three, at least so I've been told on very good authority. They are tremendous, stupendous and hazardous.

What three words can be made out of idollary using each letter once, three including idollary I mean. An unkindly person once gave this riddle to a friend to solve, stating that there were four words.

The friend found the three and at last accounts was on very good authority. They are tremendous, stupendous and hazardous.

Which animal was it that listened

For the footsteps on the stairs?

Some weeks later the bishop and the humorist met again and the bishop said, Will you tell me the answer to your conundrum. Which animal was it that listened for the footsteps on the stairs? I've racked my brain and I can't think of any plausible answer.

"Answer?" said the humorist, "why there wasn't any. That rhyme just popped into my head so I repeated it to you."

You have probably heard the old story of the man who, when taking a guest through his family picture gallery pointed to one picture and said, "Brothers and sisters have I none, but that man's father is my father's son."

But there are enough people who haven't heard that yet to make the hunt for the relationship a good ice breaker.

As I said before, these little parlor tricks are not particularly dignified nor intellectual, but they do come in very handy now and then.

and the egg slightly beaten. Pare the cucumbers, cut in one-third-inch cubes, saute in butter and add to the soup.

Baked Halibut with Tomato Sauce

Two pounds of halibut, two cups of tomatoes, one cup of water, one slice of onion, three cloves, one-half tablespoonful of sugar, three table-spoonfuls of butter, three table-spoonfuls of flour, three-quarters teaspoonful of salt, one-eighth tea-spoonful of pepper. Cook twenty minutes the tomatoes, water, onion, cloves and the sugar. Melt the but-ter, add the flour and stir into the hot mixture. Add the salt and the pepper, cook ten minutes and strain.

Clear the fish and put in the baking pan, pour around half of the sauce and bake thirty-five minutes, basting often. Remove to a hot platter, pour around the remaining sauce and gar-nish with parsley.

Doughnuts—Four cups of flour, one and one-half teaspoonful of salt, one and three-quarters teaspoonful of soda, one and three-quarters tea-spoonfuls of cream of tartar, one-quarter teaspoonful of nutmeg, one-quarter teaspoonful of butter, one-half cup of sugar, one cup of sour milk, one egg. Put the flour in a shallow pan; add the salt, soda, cream of tartar and nutmeg. Work the butter with the tips of the fingers; add the sugar, egg well beaten, and sour milk. Stir thoroughly, and toss on the board thickly dredged with flour. Knead slightly, using more flour if necessary. Roll and cut out to one-fourth inch thickness; shape, fry and drain. Sour milk doughnuts may be turned as soon as they come to the top of the fat, and frequently afterwards.

Scalloped Apples—One small baker's stale loaf, one-quarter cup of butter, one quart of sliced apples, one-quarter cup of sugar, one-quarter teaspoonful of grated nutmeg, one-quarter cup of juice of one-half lemon. Cut the loaf in halves, re-move the soft part and crumb by rubbing through a colander; melt the butter and stir in lightly, with a fork, cover the bottom of a buttered baking dish with crumbs and spread over one-half the apples, sprinkling with one-half the sugar, nutmeg, lemon juice and the mind mixed to-gether; repeat, cover with the re-maining crumbs and bake forty min-utes in a moderate oven. Cover at first to prevent the crumbs from brown-ing too rapidly. Serve with sugar and cream.

Baked Green Peppers Stuffed with Crab Meat—Cut the peppers in halves, remove the seeds and mem-brane, and soak in salted water for half an hour; then drain and cook in fresh cold water for fifteen minutes. While the peppers are cooking, pre-pare the crab meat, which can now be purchased ready haked at almost any fish shop. Chop the meat, season lightly with salt and pepper, add a few drops of lemon juice, a table-spoonful of minced parsley and stiff-ly beaten cream sauce to moisten. Pack this into the prepared peppers, stand them in a baking dish and after sprinkling the tops with grated bread crumbs, browned, bake for twenty minutes in a hot oven.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

HINKERS are rare. Most of us think we think, but that is about as far as we get, and the worst of it is, we often fail to find out that we have been deluding ourselves until it is too late to acquire the habit.

"He guesses, thinks he's thought and expresses an opinion."

RISE OF THE POPOVER.

There are some places in our country made famous by the wonderful breakfast cakes like muffins and popovers. The secret of success in any line is painstaking care and she or he who gains a reputation in any line is one who not only does things well, but does them a little better than anybody else.

There is real skill in the making and baking of a good muffin and pop-over. In the popover we want some-thing entirely different from the texture of the muffin. The inside of the popover is hollow or made up of very large bubbles, so we must remember not to beat the eggs only enough to mix them, as the popover uses the eggs solely for the lightening. In all cakes in which eggs are used for the lightening the oven should be slow.

With popovers it is extremely essen-tial for their perfection that the oven should be slow at first. As the pop-over bakes it is, if heat is applied too rapidly at first the mass begins to expand quickly and the mixture being so thin the walls of the air cells burst and the popover refuses to pop. Have the oven so slow that the popovers rise very slowly the first 20 minutes.

Popovers—Take three eggs, a pint of milk and a pint of flour, sifted before measuring and a teaspoonful of salt. Grease nine deep cups or muffin pans; this is another point not usually followed; a shallow gem pan will not do, the deep granite cups make the best popovers; they will then rise 6 to 8 inches high. Break the eggs into a bowl without separating the yolks from the whites, beat just enough to mix them, then add the milk. In a second bowl have the flour and salt and add the egg mixture slowly, beat-ing well until smooth. Strain through a sieve and put into the cups, they should be two-thirds full. They will be done in 50 minutes and should be as light as a feather when lifted. The interior is always slightly moist and they should be served without being piled on one another.

Cold popovers may be opened like cream puffs and filled with any desired filling, then served as a dessert or for a child's lunch. If filled with a good custard this is a most desirable de-sert for children.

SAYS HUBBY SHOULD HAVE BEHAVED SELF

Mrs. Melvin H. Sykes.

Mrs. Melvin H. Sykes, the wife of a well-known Chicago photographer, has separated from her husband because, as she says, "Mr. Sykes should have behaved." "Incompatibility" is all the husband will say. It is rumored there is another woman in the case. "Mr. Sykes became enamored of his wife when she came to his studio to pose for a photograph. She is called one of the most beautiful women in Chicago."

Doughnuts

That will remain moist.

Every housewife who bakes her own bread knows that if a little potato is added to the sponge, the bread will not dry out as quickly. In this recipe potato is utilized to make doughnuts that will remain moist and fresh for several days.

K C will be found to have distinct advantages over any other Baking Powder for doughnuts. K C is a double acting baking powder with which a large batch of doughnuts may be mixed and fried a few at a time. The last will be as light and nice as the first.

K C Potato Doughnuts

By Mrs. Nevada Briggs, of Baking School fame.

3 cups flour; 2 eggs; 1 cup sugar; 1 level teaspoonful K C Baking Powder; 1 tea-spoonful salt; 1 teaspoonful mace; 1 cup cold mashed potato; 1 cup milk, or more if needed.

Sift three times, the flour, salt, spice and baking Powder. Beat eggs with rotary beater, then still using rotary beater, gradually add sugar, then work in the mashed potato with a spoon and alternately add milk and flour mixture. Make a soft dough, roll into a sheet, cut into rounds, pinch a hole in the center with the finger and fry in deep fat.

Fat for frying should not be hot enough to brown the doughnut until it has risen. When the doughnut is dropped into the fat it sinks to the bottom. As soon as it comes up it should be turned and turned a number of times while cooking. This recipe is excellent as they do not take the fat in frying and will stay moist for days.

Heart and Home Problems

Dear Mrs. Thompson: (1) I am a girl of eighteen and have had boy friends ever since I was fifteen. I see no harm letting a boy put his arm around me or kiss me. I rather enjoy it. What is the harm?

(2) I am not in love with anyone. Should I get married and settle down?

(3) I presume you do enjoy it. Most girls do. They don't enjoy it quite so much, though, as they and themselves getting older and all the boys that have kissed and hugged them looking around for some other girl to marry.

The girl who lets all the boys handle her seldom marries a man who is worth anything. She gets the one she girl wants, as a rule, if she gets anybody. You see, the boys may tell her they love her if you let them kiss you, but they never follow that up by asking you to marry them, because they know they can get all the kisses and hugs they want without any responsibilities to them. And I wish you could hear the boys talk when they get together about the girls that are stuck on them.

(2) Do you think you can be true to one man or would you still see no harm in letting all the boys hug and kiss you?

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl of twelve years.

(1) I am going to have a white embroidery dress and white slippers. What color should my stockings be?

(2) What color should my ribbons be?

(3) How can I make my hair grow thick and long?

FARMER GIRL. (1) If you have fair complexion and light hair, make them light blue or light pinn. If your skin and hair are dark, have them red, with red shoes. Of course you can wear white shoes and stockings, which would be very pretty.

(2) Have ribbons the same color of the stockings, except you wear white stockings.

(3) Keep it braided closely. Brush it thoroughly every day with a clean brush. At night, before going to bed, put a little yellow vaseline on the tips of your fingers, or a little castor oil, and rub it well into the scalp. Once in three or four weeks beat up a couple of eggs and rub into the hair until they are dry, then rinse out with lukewarm water. Rinse several times and brush dry.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a boy and have a girl friend who, when I ask her to go out, says she would like to. But I am not sure if she likes me, as when I ring her up she always sends someone to the phone and says she is dressing or other things.

Sometimes she acts quite nice and again quite the opposite. Do you think she cares for me or wants to drop my acquaintance? She seems always nice to others.

If she goes with you it must be a good sign that she likes you. She acts very much like most girls act. Probably some other member of her family gets to the phone first and probably the girl is doing something that makes it inconvenient for her to come to the phone when you call her, just as she says. Of course, if she is downright mean to you, you had better take the hint and leave her alone.

BARONESS ZWIADINEK.

By Selene Armstrong Harmon. One who meets for the first time Baroness Zwiadinek, wife of the coun-sellor of the Austrian embassy at Washington, is startled by her resem-blance to certain portraits of one of the most beautiful and ill-fated women in all history—the Empress Eliza-beth of Austria.

Baroness Zwiadinek was born Baroness Franz, of an old and noble line in Austria. As a little girl she was taught to speak English per-fectly by her English governess, and she now has four languages at her command, for besides German and English she also speaks Italian and French fluently.

The baroness and her husband at one time spoke English in their home, but this was found to be detrimental to her children's com-mand of German, so that the latter tongue is now spoken by the family. Baroness Zwiadinek has insisted that this be so because no matter what she says in Austria her favorite past-time was following the hounds with her husband and their friends.

Wherever have known the American woman, says Baroness Zwiadinek, she has always been something of a revelation to me. I think her most remarkable trait is her adaptability. have never seen her in any situation to which she could not adapt herself. Your Amer-ican girls marry foreign titles and are counted among their ease in any court or any country in which they may find themselves. We Europeans are not so elastic. It is as if we had been molded in one form for generations. It is difficult, if not next to impossible, for us to depart from the precedents of a certain estab-lished order or rank of society. But you American women, why, you seem to adapt yourselves to any or all precedents, orders and ranks, and to do it gracefully and easily! It is quite wonderful to me.

Since their marriage seventeen years ago, the Baroness Zwiadinek has been society in many capitals, her husband having been in the dip-lomatic service of his country con-

GOVERNMENT KEEPS STRICT QUARANTINE ON FOREIGN PESTS

Prevent Importation of Animal and Vegetable Pests from Foreign Countries into America.

Washington, April 25.—Uncle Sam is keeping continuous guard against invasion. The enemies against which a trained corps of men are fighting are animal, bird, insect and vegetable pests. Mrs. Charles W. Morse, whose pet ants were adjudged "undesirable" was the most recent sufferer by the regulation. The most classic of all examples is the English sparrow. But since 1905, the government has strong weapons in quarantine laws passed that year to prevent introduction of undesirable living things.

The most destructive pest ever introduced into the United States is the gypsy moth. It was in 1869 that Trouvelot, an astronomer at Harvard University and an amateur entomologist of note, conceived the idea of breeding a hardy worm which would revolutionize the silk industry. He imported some gypsy moths from France, expecting to cross them with some native species. One day he left a window in his Medford home open. When he returned a mass of eggs laid by his gypsy visitors had disappeared—apparently it had blown out of the window.

At this point Trouvelot's experiments ceased. But their results did not. They are still with us and have cost the country millions of dollars. New England has been the hardest sufferer. For twenty years the gypsy moth attracted no attention. People of Medford, Mass., wondered at the destruction of their trees, but the damage remained local. Then, suddenly, the pest spread. Since then bitter warfare has been waged against it, and the victory is not yet won. The New England states alone spend thousands in the fight.

A great many people innocently bring home curious plants and animals that are active agents of mischief. Hundreds of people have attempted to bring into the country foxgloves, unknown in the United States, these overgrown bats, which often times measure five foot across the wings are Australia's greatest pests. They risk many orchards in their habitat.

The mongoose is another creature which individuals persist in trying to import. Rudyard Kipling wrote interestingly about Rikki-tikki-tavi in "The Jungle Book" but the animal isn't by any means a charming, nice mannered creature. In India he is valuable because he kills snakes. But he is also partial to chickens, young pigs, kids, lambs, puppies, kittens and certain vegetables and fruits. Therefore he is banned from America. Once in a while, however, individuals succeed in slipping one of the animals in. A Cape Cod farmer who had lost scores of chickens finally killed an animal who was apparently responsible for the damage. There was a great hue and cry about the new species of skunk he had discovered, but finally the authorities identified the little beast as a mongoose. After he got in nobody has yet found out.

Jamaica is alive with the pest, introduced by some misguided individual who thought he would rid the island of rats which caused havoc in the sugar cane fields. It was in 1872 that four males and five females were introduced. Their number increased amazingly and in 1890 the government began fighting them. Still another instance of pests was the introduction of rabbits in Australia. They were originally brought to the island to furnish early settlers with sport. How expensive that sport didn't appear until the bunnies had overrun the island. The government has spent millions fighting the pest, without apparently reducing the number in the least.

How the great danger about importing any kind of animal or bird or insect is that environment may change them completely. They may be perfectly proper things in their native haunts but horribly mischievous in their new surroundings. Biologists can't predict their habits. It is a fact, however, that a great majority of the pests introduced from natural enemies—the natural "balance" is lost—they find a longer summer breeding season and the larger scale on which American agriculture is conducted does not permit as readily of restrictive measures as do the limited holdings and intensive cultivation of Europe. Europe, it should be mentioned, has also suffered from pests sent to its shores from America, although for some curious reason native American pests do not seem to thrive in their transplanted state abroad. One notable exception, however, is the phyloxera, a grape vine disease, introduced in France in 1859, which has devastated vineyards there. The San Jose scale, brought into California by an arboriculturist from China, on some Chinese apple trees. Incidentally, it is curious to note that from California the pest recrossed the Pacific and in the United States has always been present, but never had given real trouble.

Secretary Bryan found himself confronted with the quarantine rule when customs officials at the harbor, which was excluded with six others, because they were suffering from the mange and also because of the fear they might bring them the dread foot and mouth disease.

GOOD TREATMENT MAKES A WORK HORSE WORK

Madison, Wis., April 25.—Do you know how much time it takes to get a work horse in shape for steady field work after being idle during the winter months?

Three weeks is the minimum, according to James G. Fuller of the College of Agriculture, University of Wisconsin.

"Whatever the type of work to be done, do not put him into hard work without preparation," said Mr. Fuller, in speaking of the rationing which should be fed to work horses in spring. "After being kept over winter on a maintenance ration consisting of corn stover, hay, straw and a limited amount of grain, work horses should be placed gradually on a ration of energy producing feeds.

"Regular care and intelligent feeding are the essential features in successfully handling the work horse. If possible, give him a drink the first thing in the morning, and follow this with the grain ration and a limited amount of hay. Let him have another drink on the way out of the stable to work, and, if not too warm on entering the stable at noon, and again at night.

"Whatever feed is important to the hard worked horse. A grain mixture of nine parts of oats and one part of bran, by weight, is an excellent combination. The horse should be fed from four to seven quarts of this mixture three times a day, amount depending upon the size of the horse and the character of his work. In addition, two or three ears of corn can be fed. On idle days the ration should be cut down about one-third in bulk and the grain mixture changed to seven parts of oats and three parts of bran with but little or no corn.

"It pays to use the currycomb and brush. The work horse is never groomed too much. As far as possible all dirt should be removed from the inner side of the harness collar. At the beginning of the season the shoulders should be toughened by being bathed each evening with cold water. Farm work horses should not be shod except during the dry warm weather, but their feet should be rounded by means of a rasp and kept from splitting or getting out of shape."

was in the village on Tuesday for the purpose of planning for the work of the state road that is to be built south and east of the village. Several contractors were here to meet him, and plans were made to begin the work in a short time.

CHANCE FOR AUGURS TO READ THE SIGNS

Here's Opportunity For Modern Soothsayers to Make Predictions on Mexican War.

In the predominance of bull calves reported this spring by dairymen in Southern Wisconsin some modern soothsayers might read the success of the United States in the present Mexican crisis.

It will be remembered by students of history that the augurs of ancient Rome observing the fact that the offspring of the sacred cattle at the time of the Punic wars were largely of the male sex, predicted from the omen the success of the Roman legions and the downfall of the power of Carthage, Rome's formidable rival across the Mediterranean.

Here is a chance to apply the same line of reasoning to this modern war crisis. If there be any who are skilled in the interpretation of signs now is the opportunity to act. The verdict is awaited.

DOINGS OF THE VAN LOONS—Of Course, Father Might Have Suspected It!

By F. LEITZIGER

JACKSONVILLE ELDER

Writes Characteristic Letter Regarding Loss of Appetite

He says: "Vinol is just the thing. For summer, winter, fall or spring. Follow directions, take it right. It will save your lagging appetite."

"I know for I have tried it. For weeks I could scarcely eat enough to keep a snake alive. I have taken three bottles of Vinol and now it looks like I will eat my head off. I am at the table three times a day eating as I did in the good old days when I split rails, dug wells, topped trees, plowed corn and hoed cotton. Try Vinol and see how good it feels to be real hungry."

When you ought to be hungry and are not it is because your stomach does not feel strong enough to ask for food—a sure sign of impaired general health. Better than dosing the stomach with peppin for temporary relief is taking Vinol, our delicious tonic, which has the strengthening and blood-making power of iron and the building-up value of cod liver oil. It quickly restores appetite and perfect digestion. If Vinol does not help you it costs you nothing. Smith Drug Co., Druggists.

A Resident of Janesville Shows the Way.

There's one effective way to relieve kidney backache.

Liniment and plasters may relieve it; But they seldom reach the cause.

Backache is cause to suspect the kidneys.

Doan's Kidney Pills are for disordered kidneys.

Janesville people back them up.

Read a case of it.

Mrs. Eliza Johnson, 113 N. Terrace St., Janesville, Wis., says: "I was a sufferer from kidney trouble and rheumatic pains for ten or twelve years. My kidneys seemed to get clogged and did not filter the poison from my system. I got weak and almost helpless at times. My joints swelled and were very sore. It seemed that I could get nothing that would relieve me. Finally I heard about Doan's Kidney Pills and I got a supply at the People's Drug Co. I was soon feeling better and my kidneys gradually got stronger. All I said about Doan's Kidney Pills when I recommended them two years ago, holds good. The Valiants of Virginia

By Halbe Erskine Rives

Copyright, 1914, by Halbe Erskine Rives

"I—I can't get to it, somehow, Shirley," he said with sudden desperation, "but here it is. I've come to ask you to marry me. Don't stop me," he went on hurriedly, lifting his hand: "whatever you say, I must tell you. I've been trying to for months and months!" Now that he had started, it came with a boyish vehemence that both chilled and thrilled her. Even in her own desolation, and shrinking almost unbearably from the avowal, the hope and brightness in his voice touched her with pity. It seemed to her that life was a strange jumble of unescapable and incomprehensible pain. And all the while, in the young voice vibrant with feeling, her cringing ear was catching imagined echoes of that other voice, graver and more self-contained, but shaken by the same passion, in that iteration of "I love you! I love you!"

His answer came to him finally in her silence, and he released her hands, which he had caught in his own. They dropped, limp and unresponsive, in her lap. "Shirley," he said brokenly, "maybe you can't care for me—yet. But if you will marry me, I—I'll be content with so little, till—you do."

She shook her head, her hair making dim flashes in the firelight. "No, Chilly," she said. "It makes me wretched to give you pain, but I must—I must! Love isn't like that. It doesn't come afterward. I know. I could never give you what you want. You would end by despising me, as I—should despise myself."

"I won't give up," he said incoherently. "I can't give up. Not so long as I know there's nobody else. At the ball I thought—I thought perhaps you cared for Vallant—but since he told me—"

He stopped suddenly, for she was looking at him from an ashen face. "He told me there was no reason why I should not try my luck," he said diffidently. "I asked him."

There was a silence, while he gazed at her, breathing despair. Then he tried to laugh.

"All right," he said hoarsely. "It doesn't matter. Don't worry."

She stretched out her hand to him in a gesture of wistful pain, and he held it a moment between both of his, then released it and went hurriedly out.

As the door closed, Shirley sat down, her head dropping into her hands like a storm-broken flower. Vallant had accepted the quality of the situation. With a wave of deeper hopelessness than had yet submerged her, she realized that, against her own decision, something deep within her had taken shy and secret comfort in his stubborn masculine refusal. Against all fact, in face of the impossible, her heart had been clinging to this—as though his love might even attain the miraculous and somewhere, somehow, recreate circumstance. But now he, too, had bowed to the decree. A kind of utter apathetic wretchedness seized upon her, to replace the sharp misery that had so long been her companion—an "empty numbness" in which, in a measure, she ceased to feel.

An hour dragged slowly by and at length she rose and went slowly up the stairs. Her head felt curiously heavy, but it did not ache. Outside her mother's door, as was her custom, she paused mechanically to listen. A tiny pencil of light struck through the darkness and painted a spot of brightness on her gown. It came through the keyhole; the lamp in her mother's room was burning. "She has fallen asleep and forgotten it," she thought, and softly turning the knob, pushed the door noiselessly open and entered.

A moment she stood listening to the low regular breathing of the sleeper. The reading-lamp shed a shaded glow on the pillow with its spread-out silence, and on the delicate hands, clasped loosely on the coverlet. Shirley came close and looked down on the placid face. It was smooth as a child's and a smile touched it lightly as if some pleasant sleep-thought had just laid rosy fingers on the dreaming lips. The light caught and sparkled from something bright that lay between her mother's hands. It was the enamel brooch that held her own baby curl, and she saw suddenly that what she had all her life thought was a solid pendant, was now open locket-wise and that the two halves clasped a miniature. It came to her at once that the picture must be Sassoon's, and a quick thrill of pity and yearning welled up through her own dejection. Stopping, she looked at it closely. She started as she did so, for the face on the little disk of ivory was that of John Vallant.

An instant she stared unbelievably. Then recollection of the resemblance of which Vallant had told her rushed to her, and she realized that it must be the picture of his father. The fact shocked and confounded her. Why should her mother carry in secret the miniature of the man who had killed—

Shirley's breath stopped. She felt her face tingling and a curious weakness came on her limbs. Why, indeed, unless—and the thought was like a wild prayer in her mind—she had been mistaken in her surmise? Thoughts came thronging in panic haste: the fourteenth of May and the cape jessamines—these might point no less to Vallant than to Sassoon. But her mother's fainting at the sight of the son—the eager interest she had displayed in Shirley's accounts of him, from the episode of the rose and the bulldog to the tournament ball—seemed now to stand out in a new light, throbbing and resolute. Could it be? Had she been stumbling along a blind trail, misled by the cunning dovetailing of circumstance? Her heart was beating stiffly. If she should be mistaken now! She dashed her hand across her eyes as though to compel their clearness, and looked again.

It was Beauty Vallant's face that lay in the locket, and that could mean but one thing: it was he, not Sassoon, whom her mother loved!

The lamplight seemed to grow and spread to an unbearable radiance. Shirley thought she cried out with a sudden sweet wildness, but she had not moved or uttered a sound. The illumination was all about her, like a splendid cloud. The impossible had happened. The miracle for which she had hysterically prayed had been wrought!

When she blew out the light, the shining still remained. That glowing knowledge, like a vitalizing and physical presence, passed with her through the hall to her room. As she stood in the elfish light of her one candle, the poignancy of her joy was as sharp as her past pain. Later was to come the wonder how that tragedy had bent Beauty Vallant's life to exile and her mother's to fulfillment, and in time she was to know these things, too. But now the one great knowledge blotted out all else. She need starve her fancy no longer! The hours with her lover might again sweep across her memory undimmed. She felt his arms, his kisses, heard his whispers against her cheek and smelled the perfume of Madonna lilies.

She drew the curtain and opened the window noiselessly to the light. Only a few hours ago she had been singing to her harp in what wretchedness! She laughed softly to herself. The quiet night was full of his voice: "I love you! I want nothing but you!" How her pitiful error had tortured and wrung them both! But tomorrow he, too, would know that all was well.

A clear sound chimed across the distance—the bell of the court-house clock, striking midnight. One! Two! How often lately it had run discordantly across her mood; now it seemed a clamant watcher, tolling joy. Three! Four! Five! Perhaps he was sleeping, listening, too. Was he in the old library, thinking of her? Six! Seven! Eight!

Nine! If she could only send her message to him on the bells! Ten! It swelled more loudly now, more deliberate. Eleven! Another day was almost gone. Twelve! "Joy cometh in the morning"—ran the whisper across her thought. It was morning now.

Thirteen! She caught a sharp breath. Her ear had not deceived her—the vibration still palpitated on the air like a heart of sound. It had struck thirteen! A little early touch crept along her nerves and a cool dampness broke on her skin, for she seemed to hear, quivering through the wondering silence, the voice of Mad Anthony, as he had quavered to her ear on the door-step of the negro cabin, with the well-sweep throwing its long curved shadow across the group of laughing faces:

"Ah seen yo' gwine ter him. Ah heas de co't-house clock 'strikin' in de night—en yo' gwine. . . . Don' wait, don' wait, it's mistle, er de trouble-cloud gwine kyah him erway 'fom yo' . . . When de clock strike thutteen—when de clock strike thutteen—"

She dropped the flowered curtain and drew back. A weird fancy had begun to press on her brain. Had not Mad Anthony foretold truly what had gone before? What if there were some cryptic meaning in this too? To go to him, at midnight, by a lonely country road—she, a girl? Incredible! Yet her mind had opened to a vague growing fear that was swiftly mounting to a thrilling anxiety. That innate superstition, secretly cherished while derided, which is the heritage of the South-born bred from centuries of contact with a mystical race, had her in its grip. Yet all the while her sober actual common-sense was crying out upon her—and crying in vain. Unknown appetences that had lain darkling in her blood, come down to her from long generations, were suddenly compelling her. The curtain began to wave in a little wind that whispered in the silk, and somewhere in the yard below she could hear Selim nipping the clover.

She was to go to the "trouble-cloud" would carry him away!

A strange expression of mingled fright and resolve grew on her face. She ran on tiptoe to her wardrobe and with frantic haste dragged out a rough cloak that fell over her soft house-gown, covering it to the feet. It had a peaked hood falling from its collar and into this she thrust the resolute masses of her hair. Every few seconds she caught her breath in a short gasp, and once she paused with an apprehensive glance over her shoulder and shivered. She scarcely knew what she did, nor did she ask herself what might be the outcome of such an absurd adventure. She neither knew nor cared. She was swept off her feet and whirled away into some outlandish limbo of shadowy fear and crying dread.

Slipping off her shoes, she went swiftly and noiselessly down the stairs. She let herself out of the door and, shoes on again, ran across the clover. A bound clambered about her, whining, but she silenced him with a whispered word. Selim lifted his head and she patted the snuffling inquiring muzzle an instant before, with her hand on his mane, she led him through the hedge to the stable. It was but the work of a moment to throw on a side-saddle and buckle the girth. Then, mounting, she turned him into the lane.

He was thoroughbred, and her tense excitement seemed to communicate itself to him. He blew the breath through his delicate flaring nostrils and flung up his head at her restraining hand on the bridle. Once on the Red Road, she let him have his will. The long vacant highway reeled out behind her to the fierce and lonely hazy-tattoo. She was scarcely conscious of consecutive thought—all was a vague jumble of chaotic impressions, threaded by that necessity that called her like an insistent voice.

Corse and hedge flew by, streaks of duster on the shifting gloom; swarthy farmhouse roofs huddled like giant Indians on the trail, and ponds in pastures glistened back the pale glimmering of stars. The faint mist, tangled in the branches of the trees, made them look like ghosts gathered to see her pass. Was this real or was she dreaming? Was she, Shirley Dandridge, really galloping down an open road at midnight—because of the hare-brained manderings of a half-mad old negro?

The great iron gate of Damory court hung open, and scarcely slackening her pace, she rode through and up the long drive. The glooming house-front was blank and silent and its huge porch columns looked like lonely gray monoliths in the wan light. Not a twinkle showed at chink or cranny; the ponderous shutters were closed. There was a sense of desertion, of emptiness about the place that brought her heart into her throat with a sickly horrible feeling of certainty.

She jumped down from the blowing horse and hurried around the house. The door of the kitchen was open and a ladder of dim reddish light fell from it across the grass. She ran swiftly and looked in. A huddled figure sat there, rocking to and fro in the lamplight.

Small Fish Prey on Mosquitoes.
The one way to prevent mosquitoes from multiplying in pools that cannot be drained is to place small fish in these pools. It is only the very small fish that make them their prey in all stages of their development. Consequently the presence of large fish in any lake or pond is a positive injury instead of a benefit so far as mosquitoes are concerned, because almost all large fish make a prey of the small ones.

DON'T TRUST CALOMEL

THOUSANDS EXPERIENCE BAD AFTER EFFECTS FROM THIS DANGEROUS DRUG.

A Safe Vegetable Substitute is Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets for the Liver.

Dr. F. M. Edwards, a prominent physician of Ohio, has discovered a laxative and liver toner in a combination of vegetable materials mixed with olive oil, which is in effect almost exactly like calomel, except that there are none of the bad after effects.

Dr. Edwards has long been a foe of calomel, though he recognized its value along with its dangers.

His distrust of the uncertain drug eventually started him, years ago, towards experiments with the view of discovering a substitute, and he has been for several years in possession of the long sought-for combination, which is in the shape of a little sugar-coated, olive-colored tablet.

The results of 17 years' experience and practice are embodied in these marvelous little tablets.

They are called Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets. And their effect on the liver has been the means of relief to many of Dr. Edwards' regular patients as well as to thousands of others who have suffered and were afraid of calomel.

There is no necessity, when you take Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets, by following them up with nasty, sickening griping salts, or castor oil, as you do after taking calomel. Try them. 10c and 25c per box. The Olive Tablet Company, Columbus, O. All druggists.

The prisoner sat disconsolate in his cell. Suddenly the warden appeared. "We have obtained proof," he said, "that another man committed the crime with which you are charged."

"Well, guess that lets me out," said the prisoner.

"This office you are applying for will require your constant attention," warned the eminent official.

"That's all right. I don't believe I will have to hustle any harder to hold it than I have done to get it."

"Do you think Miss Kidder was having fun with me?" asked Chavley.

"Well, old chap, give me the details," was Arthurs' response. "You see, I had my bull terrier with me. And said to her, 'That dog knows as much as I do.' And she said, 'Don't you think $5 was too much to pay for him?'"

"I asked Miss Cayenne her opinion of me, and she said she thought I'd be very attractive to mice. What on earth do you suppose she meant by that?"

"It was just a polite way of saying that you were a piece of cheese."

Little Tommy came home after his first day at school, and was immediately asked what he had learned.

"Didn't learn anything," he replied. "A woman asked me how to spell cat, and told her."
